MEDIA DISTORTION

National Union of Journalists' guidelines on reporting on the British National Party tells its members to "always portray the BNP in a negative light". It advises journalists "to seek out information that is critical of the BNP" and to "give coverage to those with opposing viewpoints to the BNP".

Well, journalists' writing skills were put to the test in November when they had to report on the BNP's excellent local election results in Burnley. In two seats, Lowerhouse and Trinity, which the party had never fought before, BNP candidates polled 23% and 19% of the vote. Lowerhouse represented double the percentage we polled in the General Election, with Trinity not far behind.

But how on earth do you report such startlingly good results in a negative fashion? It's easy - you just pretend that the BNP were supposed to win and that it was a huge shock that they didn't. "Voters reject BNP" was how The Guardian reported that one-in-five voters had supported the BNP. "The British National Party were booted out of the elections" was how the Lancashire Evening Telegraph covered the party's best ever vote in the town, while the BBC were slightly more reserved in their "BNP fail to win any seats in Burnley" headline. They did acknowledge the BNP had improved its vote to 20% but put this down to "a very low poll", despite the fact that the turnout was half as much again as the last time in May 2000. BNP members and supporters must be prepared to accept that the party will rarely get any good publicity. Journalists are simply not allowed to report the party in a positive light if they are to hold on to their NUJ cards.

THE RIOT REPORTS

The BNP were right all along! That was the real conclusion to be drawn from December's four separate reports into the summer's racial violence in Bradford, Burnley and Oldham. Of course, that's not the impression given by the media coverage of the reports, and it's not the message their left-liberal authors wanted to put over either. But just look at the facts:

ANTI-WHITE SPENDING DECISIONS

- The Burnley Task Force Report admitted that massive council overspending on the overwhelmingly Muslim Daneshouse ward was a key factor in creating understandable white resentment;

- The same Task Force, chaired by Lord Clarke, revealed official Town Hall figures showing that out of £50 million allocated for improvements over ten years, 25% of the money went to the Pakistanis and Bangladeshis who make up just 8% of the population of Burnley. That means they were getting more than three times their fair share;

- The Ritchie Report in Oldham also commented on the way that council spending policies had created resentment. In Oldham, whites make up 86.7% of the population, but when it came to Home Improvement Grants this year, they only got 26% of the money. That's more than three times less than their fair share;

According to Oldham council's Housing Department, the average white family getting a Home Improvement Grant got £3,059, the average Pakistani family got £11,336 and the average Bangladeshi family got £14,863 - that's nearly five times as much as white people living in the same town.

LABOUR & LIBDEM FAILURE

The Ritchie Report laid the blame for the problems in Oldham squarely on the Labour and LibDem politicians who've run the place into the ground for more the old party politicians and the media have stopped over the last forty years, so the terrible problems this censorship has caused are all their fault.

RIOTS - BNP CLEARED

While the left-wing and minority-dominated teams which produced the reports naturally criticised the BNP for making political capital out of the troubles, not one of the four reports found any evidence whatsoever that the British National Party was involved in any of the riots.

That, of course, is because the party wasn't, but at least it's now ily separated themselves as a major factor underlying the disturbances. But it acknowledged that "people don't want to mix."

The same basic fact of human nature also comes over very clearly from the investigation into the disturbances in Bradford. This shows that the multiracists' fantasy about everyone "living in harmony" was impossible right from the start. We've always said so, so we've been right all along!

Despite having acknowledged all these facts, the reports' multiracist authors all managed to come to the same illogical, Politically Correct conclusion: The answer to the problems caused by multiracialism is more multiracialism!

That's the meaning of their key recommendations: Reward ethnic minority rioters by forcing councils to employ more ethnic minorities; force presently peaceful white council estates to accept large numbers of non-white families; force children to move to schools where they'll be the frightened victims of racist bullying.

Policies like these are guaranteed to cause racial conflict far worse than anything we've seen so far. And implemented by left-wing Labour and LibDem councils it's sure to be white communities who are forced to do things they don't want. That's why it's more important than ever to build the British National Party and to step up the campaign for Rights for Whites!

Home Secretary David Blunkett, the BNP's favourite politician!

- Labour Home Secretary has acknowledged that Politically Correct multiculturalism is the root of many of the problems;

The main Cattle Report urged an "open and honest debate" into the whole question of race and immigration. That's exactly what clear that all the media stories accusing the BNP of "inciting the riots" were a pack of lies.

DIVIDED TOWNS "NATURAL"

The Ritchie Report on the troubles in Oldham saw the fact that the communities have voluntar-

POLICE DROP A CLANGER!

Over-zealous Thought Police in Leeds have made a terrible blunder by arresting, manhandling and prosecuting 62-year-old Dick Warrington for a 'crime' that doesn't even exist!

Dick put a copy of the BNP's "Islam Out of Britain" poster in his front window, and was promptly visited by 'Community Relations' Thought Police who tore it down.

Undeterred, he got another one and put it back. The very next day, a whole vanload of PC PCs turned up and broke into Dick's house. The poster was again ripped down and Mr. Warrington was attacked, pushed to the floor and forcibly held down while having his hands cuffed behind his back.

He was then arrested and questioned, and has since been charged with "incitement to racial hatred" over the poster. The snag for the police, however, is that Islam is not covered by the anti-free speech Race Law. Unless or until Blunkett's new Heresy Law goes through parliament, it's legal to say anything you want about Islam, even far more extreme things than the very moderate message on the poster.

This little caper, which clearly involves assault, ABH, wrongful arrest, false imprisonment and malicious prosecution, is going to cost the local Constabulary thousands of pounds. Couldn't happen to a nicer bunch of anti-white bigots!

SARAH PAYNE - MURDERED BY DO-GOODERS!

The vile paedophile murderer of poor little Sarah Payne is behind bars at last. We're pleased about that, but it's really nothing to celebrate.

First, because it means that more little children will die of things like kidney disease on account of a shortage of NHS funds while vast amounts of taxpayers' money will be used to keep the evil bastard in luxury for another forty years.

Which in turn means that other sex case perverts will think it's worth taking the risk to murder other little girls and boys in the future.

Second, because he was already a convicted child sex case. Roy Whiting murdered Sarah Payne, but she was condemned to death by the liberal do-gooders who insisted that a man who had already been convicted for a serious sexual assault on a child of eight should be "rehabilitated in the community" and put on a secret sex offenders register, instead of being put on the end of a rope.

That's why the vast majority of ordinary decent people in this country, like the British National Party, want to see vermin like Roy Whiting face the death penalty for their crimes. But it won't happen until that vast majority stop electing Labour, Lib-Dem and Tory do-gooders who undemocratically ignore the wishes of the vast majority.

Sarah Payne: our children's safety must come first!

BRITAIN'S STREETS: BIN LADEN THUGS ON THE RAMPAGE!

November 5th to 11th was 'Muslim Awareness Week', and there's no doubt it was seven days that made an impact on the lives of Britons living in Bradford, Leeds, Blackburn and Halifax. By the end of the week they were certainly aware of the Muslims living in their midst.

1) Reverend Tony Tooby of St Phillip's Church in Thorn Street, Gillingham, Bradford was stoned and his church set on fire by a 50-strong gang of youths shouting racist abuse and chanting for Osama Bin Laden. The Bishop of Bradford, the Right Reverend David Smith, condemned the attack, "I was dismayed to hear of the race abuse hurled at the vicar. The perpetrators of this violence bring their community into disrepute and give no satisfaction at all to those who are working for racial harmony in Bradford."

2) A 38-year-old Leeds businessman had to have stitches to his face and temporarily lost the sight in his left eye after his car was attacked by Bin Laden thugs screaming "Kill all whites".

3) It was just one of a number of attacks on Harehills Road, which was targeted by groups of youths shouting "Get out of Afghanistan" and "Kill all whites". A disabled man in another car was pelted with bricks and fireworks and had his windscreen smashed with an axe.

4) November 5th was a busy night for police in West Yorkshire with over 100 reported incidents of youths stopping cars on their way to bonfires and demanding the occupants say "Osama bin Laden rules". If they refused, their cars were subjected to a barrage of bricks and fireworks.

5) Leaders of the Muslim fundamentalist movement al-Muhajiroun have called for a "campaign of disobedience" throughout Britain and a winter of civil unrest in northern England's Muslim heartlands. Tassadiq Rehman has told followers, "We are in a war situation and civil disobedience is a legitimate strategy."

6) In Blackburn on November 10th, a crowd of more than 200 Bin Laden supporters marched through the town. Police removed banners and placards that showed the face of Osama bin Laden and offensive references to Tony Blair and President

George Bush.

6) In Halifax, Bin Laden thugs were on the rampage for three nights running at the beginning of November, burning down the town's Actors' Workshop Theatre, setting cars alight and stoning the police and fire brigade. Hooded youths sporting provocative "Twin Towers" t-shirts, from the mainly Muslim St John's Wood district of the town, lured police into Vickerman Street by setting a car alight. They then stoned them along with firemen who came to put the blaze out. Local councillor, Mohammed Saghir, defended the youths saying that they were just 'teasing' the police because they were disappointed that they didn't have any bonfires. He accused the police of over-reacting to the situation. The three nights of rioting cost the local community over £400,000.

THE BNP AND IMMIGRATION

The BNP is best known for its policy on immigration. The BNP opposes immigration into the UK because, according to Britain's leading population experts, the native British people will be a minority in this country in just a few short decades.

To avoid this, we will halt all further immigration and asylum seeking, and introduce a system of voluntary resettlement whereby immigrants resident in Britain will be encouraged, but not forced, to return to their lands of native origin.

Should they choose to return home, the government would provide all the necessary money, and should some choose to stay, they can, and will be provided the full protection of the law.

The BNP even has its own Ethnic Liaison Committee, which allows supporters from ethnic minorities to help the BNP in a constructive way. We have this because it isn't a matter of "hate", as we are willing to co-operate with anyone who supports the right of the British people to maintain their own homeland.

The British National Party is opposed to 'multiculturalism', and the massive conflict and hatred it causes.

We feel that all forms of life on this planet are sacred and should be preserved, but the BNP specifically wishes to preserve those ethnic differences which make up the rich tapestry of mankind. We oppose those who are determined to destroy all cultures and all races to achieve a multi-racial mish-mash. We believe firmly in ethnic and national identity.

To protect and preserve the ethnic and cultural integrity of the British people — and of others too, the party believes that all races and peoples have a right to a homeland.

All peoples need a homeland. The British too need a homeland. Yet very soon we will lose ours, because we cannot bring ourselves to say 'no' to immigration. In short, Britain is being colonised. The British people were never given the chance to vote on whether they wanted Britain to become a 'multicultural' society. It was forced on us by the politicians against the clear wishes of the people.

To sum up, the British National Party is fighting for the very right to exist of not just the British people, but of all peoples and cultures around the world against those who seek to destroy all forms of identity.

BLATANT BIAS CORPORATION

Yet another top BBC journalist has come unstuck while trying to "have a go" at BNP Chairman Nick Griffin.

Radio Five Live presenter Peter Allen interviewed Mr Griffin the day after the Riot Reports came out. But instead of asking questions related to the reports, Allen kept up a barrage of extremely hostile general questions, and at one stage referred to Nick's quick-fire but reasonable answers as "claptrap."

The interview itself turned out to be something of a nightmare for the BBC hack, who was soon well out of his depth. But things got even worse later in the programme.

Deluged with emails about his blatant bias, Allen read out one and apologised gracelessly for his "sloppy journalism," before joking and laughing about it with his fellow anchor, Jane Garvey.

This obviously incensed the listeners even more and twenty minutes later Allen read out another email about his bias before saying: "This is getting ridiculous, we're being flooded with emails about this. That's the end of this subject."

PENSIONERS BEFORE ASYLUM SEEKERS!

Last month New Labour made it very clear how much it cares about Britain's elderly population. They rejected the findings of their own Royal Commission for a fairer system for funding long-term care for the elderly.

Labour supporter for 50 years, Claire Rayner, was so disgusted with this 'mean-mindedness' towards pensioners, that she promptly resigned from the party.

So a British Government that squanders £837 million a year on looking after bogus foreign asylum seekers, has bluntly told its own elderly population to fend for itself.

In Britain, older people who need care are increasingly being looked after by other older people - their husbands, wives, brothers and sisters.

It is these people that New Labour is exploiting. It's a bleak existence for the UK's two million older carers with many putting in long hours of intensive caring (on very low incomes), while suffering from serious health conditions themselves.

They receive no regular support from health, social services or home care agencies. A recent report, 'Caring in Later Life', from the University of Kent exposes the human cost of care.

1) One third of all carers over the age of 75 are providing 50 hours of care a week;

2) Three quarters of older people who live with the person they care for receive no regular visits from health or social services;

3) Only one in 10 older carers who live with the person they look after receive home care;

4) One in five older carers has difficulties paying for essential services such as fuel bills;

5) Three quarters of carers over

70 are paying for services out of their savings;

6) One third of carers said they had not had a break since they had started caring;

7) Well over half of older carers report a long standing illness or disability;

Tory and New Labour Governments have presided over a decade of underfunded community care. They have exploited a generation of Britain's finest, knowing that they will battle on in the face of poverty, ill health and lack of support, rather than kick up a fuss and draw attention to themselves. The BNP demands an immediate increase in the Basic State Pension and welfare payments for the elderly in need and their carers. It is vital that additional funding is found to cover improvements in flexible care and respite services that our older people so desperately need. Redirecting £837 million a year would make a big difference to community care!

Under a British National Party government, pensioners will be taken care of properly

IRA DUPE CHANNEL 4

The IRA have duped Channel 4 into broadcasting a major piece of their propaganda as the highlight of the TV station's winter schedule. "Sunday", which is due to be shown in January, is billed as "the factual story of Bloody Sunday and the events in Londonderry on 30th January 1972".

Tim Gardham, Channel 4's director of programmes, confirmed the docu-drama aimed to McGuinness Security'. Now don't be surprised if that name has a familiar ring to it. Willy - yes, you've guessed it - is the brother of Martin McGuinness the IRA commanding officer in Londonderry at the time of Bloody Sunday, a key member of the IRA leadership in the Bogside that day and reportedly the man who fired the first shot during the disturbances.

The docu-drama has been written by Jimmy McGovern, who says he and his team have conducted hundreds of interviews with priests, politicians, paramedics, journalists, eyewitnesses and the relatives of vic-depict the events "fairly and accurately". But Voice of Freedom can reveal that the work is a blatant piece of propaganda produced by IRA supporters with the sole purpose of rewriting history to whitewash the IRA and discredit the British Army.

The film is the brainchild of Tony Doherty, a former IRA terrorist, who was sentenced to eight years in prison for paramilitary offences. He is the founder of the Bloody Sunday Justice Campaign and his company, Gaslight, is involved in the production of the film.

Making sure that everything runs smoothly while on location is a firm called 'Willy tims. This leaves one to speculate on how many unbiased eyewitness were caught up in the mayhem that day, or as to the impartiality of the relatives of the victims?

But the best is still to come. No IRA member is identified in the film, despite Lord Widgery's inquiry into 'Bloody Sunday' finding "a major IRA presence involved in the disturbances", and Martin McGuinness, the main player in the tragic events, isn't mentioned or portrayed at all!

So "Sunday" isn't 'the factual story of Bloody Sunday', at all, it's just IRA propaganda broadcast at peak viewing time courtesy of Channel 4.

COALITION AGAINST RACISM (CAR) LAUNCHED TO STOP THE BNP IN OLDHAM

Oldham East and Saddleworth MP, Phil Woolas, knows Labour is in danger of losing Oldham at the next General Election.

In fact, he's so worried about the prospect that he's launched a campaign group with the sole purpose of stopping people from voting for the political party most likely to replace them.

Labour Deputy Mayor Riaz Ahmad

The sole objective of CAR (Coalition Against Racism) is to "...stop people from voting for the British National Party."

Woolas is somewhat vague on how CAR intends to actually interfere with peoples' democratic right to vote for the political party of their choosing, preferring to talk about "celebrating the multiculturalism of Oldham". He did acknowledge, however, that CAR intended to blunt the influence of Oldham's white voters by ensuring that every member of every ethnic minority living in the town would be registered to vote.

CAR is, in fact, far from representing a coalition. Apart from Woolas, it's governing body is comprised of Labour Euro-MP Arlene McCarthy and Labour Deputy Mayor Riaz Ahmad. Two immigrant groups are represented, the Bangladeshi Youth Association and Godwick West Indian Association. The reality of CAR is that it's Labour and Immigrant groups Against the Right of people to vote for the party of their choice. They should, of course, be called liar which sums up well what local people think when the likes of Phil Woolas tell them that multi-racialism is working in Oldham!

ANOTHER IMMIGRATION BOMBSHELL!

In September this year the Office for National Statistics (ONS) released new figures showing the alarming growth rate of Britain's ethnic minorities.

The exceptionally high birthrate within the Pakistani and Bangladeshi communities was responsible for the Government revising previous estimates as to the projected size of Britain's immigrant communities in future years.

Now, barely two months later, the Government are having to revise their figures yet again, this time because of increased numbers of immigrants arriving in Britain.

In 1998 the ONS predicted that not more than 95,000 immigrants each year would enter Britain, but now the government has admitted that these figures are ridiculously low. In fact immigration last year into Britain totalled 180,000, nearly double what was predicted.

Chris Shaw from the Office of National Statistics explained the need to revise the figures.

"There's been a big increase. The last two years since the previous projections have seen record migration numbers. It has caused an unusual population increase."

So in the space of just eight weeks two sets of Government figures have confirmed the concern of the majority of British people - that the growth of Britain's immigrant population is spiralling out of control.

"The real enemy we should be looking at after September 11th is injustice. Israel has, through state terrorism and collective punishment, violated nearly every article and convention of human rights law in oppressing the Palestinians for more than 50 years. A viable and democratic Palestinian state might be one key step towards resolving some of that injustice."

Chris Doyle

"President Mubarak has consistently called for countries - such as Britain - that have been harbouring terrorists, to give them up.

"Unfortunately, such warnings have gone unheeded. It is outrageous for anyone to justify the fact that these people enjoy the hospitality of the UK taxpayer because of so-called 'harsh tactics' used against them in their own countries."

"Multiculturalism means always having to say you're sorry. But it's a one way street. Multiculturalism means celebrating Diwali but banning Christmas. It means tolerating a mosque named after Saddam Hussain in the middle of our second biggest city, but banning the Union Jack on the grounds that it is 'offensive' to minorities..."

"It is gravely ironic that, for many residents of West Yorkshire, Islamic Awareness Week has brought them a first-hand knowledge of Muslim youth which they would rather not have had. In spite of an attempt by police to brush the details under the carpet, this week has brought an alarming number of incidents involving young Muslims...

"So long as police and politicians bend over backwards to preserve an image of multicultural harmony in Britain in defiance of the clear evidence to the contrary, lawlessness among young Muslims, as bad as it is now is, can only get worse."

"But I do question the wisdom of allowing thousands of people to settle in this country who hate our nation and all it stands for. If they really believe that their religious beliefs are incompatible with western ideals of freedom and tolerance then they should go and live somewhere else. And I don't understand why asylum seekers have to travel through half a dozen Western democracies to get to the UK. Surely if you were desperately escaping persecution, you would happily settle in the first country to offer you sanctuary?

Bill Carmichael,

"An industry has died here in Brixham. The evidence is all around: the fish-warehouses, net-makers, chandlers, smoking houses, rope merchants and icehouses - all gone. The tragedy is that most of this has happened in the past 30 years since we joined the EU. It could have all been so different. The example lies across the North Sea in independent Norway. Free of the EU strait-jacket, they have maintained a thriving fishing industry."

RICH LEFTIES PLOT TO GAG WHITE WORKING CLASS

The Anti-'Nazi' League (ANAL) is a front for the rabidly anti-British Socialist Workers Party. The SWP is Britain's largest surviving Communist group.

The SWP has supported the IRA throughout all its cowardly bomb attacks on defenceless civilians. Its members have safe housed IRA murderers. The SWP wants to legalise paedophilia. The SWP wants to abolish all immigration controls and claims that "asylum seekers are welcome."

With policies like that, it's no surprise that the SWP has to use front groups like the ANAL to con silly young students into getting involved and giving them money.

The Anti-'Nazi' League is now trying to blag a whopping £100,000 to pay the salaries of various SWP officials, and to put what's left into a campaign to "Stop the BNP from winning seats in the May 2002 elections." The ANAL plan to put out lie-filled anti-BNP smear leaflets in places such as Oldham and Bradford, hoping to minimise our vote. This is against the Representation of the Peoples Act (RPA), but unfortunately that cornerstone of British democratic politics has now been made obsolete by the European Convention of Human Rights.

Any attempt to use the RPA to stop ANAL's silly students from treating decent working class people like brainless idiots would only result in ANAL's greedy Socialist Workers' Party backers raking in tens of thousands of pounds in compensation for wrongful arrest.

The BNP will therefore be producing a hard-hitting leaflet warning voters about the Anti-'Nazi' League, exposing it for what it really is - a front for perverts, the IRA and multicultural fanatics who have lost the argument.

Anti-'Nazi' League members show what they really think of Britain by burning the Union Jack MUGGED BY THE COMMON FISHERIES POLICY!

Heard the one about the country that owned 80% of marine resources in Europe yet was forced to import more fish than it was allowed to catch to meet the needs of its people? Yes it sounds like a joke but, unfortunately for us, it isn't!

The European Union, through its Common Fisheries Policy, now controls UK waters and have declared them the property of Europe. The EU has given foreign fishermen access to our waters but has limited British fleets to just 12% of our own marine resources.

We must have control over our own fishing industry so that we can protect stocks and provide a thriving livelihood for future generations from the country's traditional fishing ports. Around the British Isles is the greatest marine resource anywhere in the world, and we should be a world leader in the husbandry of that resource.

However, only by being in control of its own industry can Britain forge ahead utilising the technical advances in selective fishing gear such as the Square Mesh Escape Panel Net that is needed to harvest our fish stocks and ensure their future. First the Tories, and then Labour have given away a vital national interest to a foreign power and denied the British people access to a valuable natural resource. Only the BNP will re-establish British sovereignty over Britain's fishing grounds.

The British National Party is the only political party that will withdraw Britain from the Common Fisheries Policy and the European Un-

BRADFORD REVIEW - MULTI-RACIALISM HAS FAILED!

If the Muslim community fails, then Bradford fails. That's the conclusion of the Review of Race Relations in Bradford by Lord Herman Ouseley, published in November. It goes on to predict the demise of the city unless the "Muslim community is prioritised" at the expense of all other races.

The report is a damning indictment of Britain's multi-racial society and its findings could have come from a BNP policy document of twenty years ago, which predicted the impending collapse of multi-racial Britain.

The Review found that:

- 1) Bradford was a city fragmented along social, cultural, ethnic and religious lines. Segregation was beginning in the home, developing in the playground and cementing itself in the workplace.
- 2) Races never mixed unless thrown together in bus queues or shops.
- 3) Apartheid existed in schools.
- 4) The city was made up of hostile communities.
- 5) Weak political leadership within the three main parties was 'kowtowing' to ethnic groups to avoid disturbances and keep the peace.

6) Police were soft on crime in the ethnic communities because officers were scared of being called 'racist'.

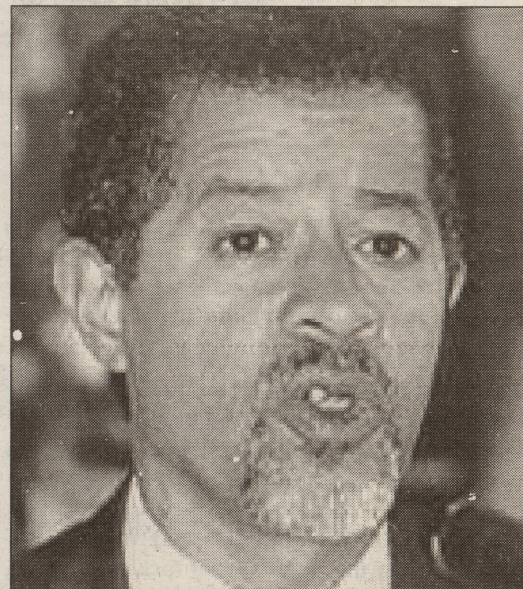

7) Minority communities were locked into a blame-culture, always putting their failings down to racism. 8) 50% of Muslim marriages in Bradford were to partners from Pakistan who couldn't speak English.

9) Children were being taken out of school and missing exams to go for lengthy stays in Pakistan.

The Review offered no hope for Bradford as a multi-racial melting-pot and saw a successful future only as a predominantly Muslim community.

That's something that has sent alarm bells ringing through the city and seen Sikhs and Hindus leaving in their thousands to join their own communities in Pudsey and Farsley, while 'white flight' from the city is now at record levels.

Policies in brief...

The British National Party has a stance on all the major issues affecting our nation. Here is a list of our policies on the most important areas of the day such as immigration, Europe, crime, health, education, defence and the environment:

- A massive expansion of Freedom and Democracy to roll back the erosion of our traditional freedoms and truly reflect the wishes of the people; the adoption of popular referenda & hi-tech direct democracy.
- The establishment of a government that puts British interests first.
- An end to immigration and the scandal of bogus asylum-seekers flooding Britain. The use of the billions now wasted in foreign aid to fund generous 'Homeward Bound' schemes to encourage immigrants to return to their lands of origin.
- British withdrawal from the European Union: trade with Europe where it suits us but no political ties, and no monetary union.
- The use of the £1.8 million per hour we at present pay the EU to fund the restoration of an effective National Health Service and proactive measures to produce a healthier population in the first place.
- British ownership and control of British industry and resources including the mass media.
- Protection of British jobs and industry by the selective exclusion of foreign manufactured goods from the British market.
- The introduction of tax incentives and other policies designed to ensure that the City finances British industry rather than foreign competitors.
- The regeneration of British farming, with the object of achieving the maximum self-sufficiency in food; also the restoration of the fishing industry by protection of our traditional fishing grounds.
- A healthy environment for a healthy people — the protection of our countryside; a ban on greenfield-site house building except in cases of genuine local need; an end to field trials of genetically modified crops.
- A crack-down on crime and tougher treatment of criminals, including the return of the death penalty for child killers and terrorists.
- A return to traditional methods of education, with stronger discipline in the classroom and an end to the 'trendy' teaching methods which have failed our children so badly.
- An alternative defence strategy based on the principle of armed neutrality; no British blood should be shed in conflicts which do not involve vital British interests. The restoration of the County Regiment system and reversal of the defence cuts which have weakened our Armed Forces and cost thousands of jobs.
- The crushing of the IRA and other terrorist groups, the termination of the Anglo-Irish agreement and the establishment of a devolved, non-sectarian parliament in Northern Ireland.
- A return to healthy moral values and policies aimed at strengthening the family and community. Tough penalties for corruption in public life.

THE SHADOWY FRIENDS OF NEW LABOUR

The General Agreement on Trade and Services (GATS) gives big business access to Britain's essential services in its search for profit. (Voice of Freedom issue No.21. "Private Affluence & Public Squalor").

GATS enables New Labour to hand over control of every public service including healthcare, education, energy, state is former Tory Trade and Industry Secretary, Leon Brittan.

Brittan, a former head of the European Union and now Vice-Chairman of international banking house UBS Warburg Dillon Read, is the leading light of the shadowy Liberalization of Trade in Services (LOTIS) committee. Over the last 22 months they have held 14 se-water and transportation to multi-national companies without even asking the British public what they think!

It means that public services - essential services provided by a national government for the welfare of its people at the lowest possible cost - will become private services, owned by multi-national corporations and run for the welfare of shareholders at the highest possible cost to maximise profits.

This privatisation of what is left of our public services is a throwback to the Tory policies of the 1980s, so it's no surprise to find out that the man advising the government to get rid of the last vestiges of our welfare cret meetings with Britain's chief service trade negotiators and the Bank of England.

It's a scandal that a rejected Tory minister is now advising a New Labour Government, in secret, on how best to hand over Britain's essential services to the private sector.

Such a massive change in Government policy should be put to the democratic process so that the British people can vote as to whether they want to hand over their essential services to a third party.

It's a matter of national interest, and New Labour should be consulting the British people - not some shadowy sect of international financiers!

ASYLUM SEEKERS: TEN THINGS YOU SHOULD KNOW

- 1) Looking after asylum seekers costs Britain £835 million a year.
- 2) Asylum seekers cost each British family £34 a year.
- 3) 100,000 refugees arrived in the UK last year, an increase of 7% on 1999.
- 4) Britain is the most favoured European destination for asylum seekers, overtaking Germany to record the largest number of new refugee claims.

5) 321,000 rejected asylum seekers are living illegally in Britain.

6) Fewer than 25,000 rejected asylum seekers have been removed or left the country voluntarily.

7) One in four of all people claiming asylum in the European Union did so in Britain.

8) Most UK asylum seekers are Muslims and come from Iraq, Sri Lanka, Kosovo and Afghanistan.

9) Since 1990 121,000 people who were not recognised as refugees were still allowed to stay through an amnesty scheme and problems in enforcing their return.

10) Three-quarters of asylum seekers to Britain have their claims for refugee status turned down - but they still stay, working illegally in the black economy.

Oakington: Britain's main asylum seekers' detention centre processed 7,747 claims last year. 7,690 were found to be bogus!

SA80 MODIFICATION: "Sticky-Plaster Job on a Useless Weapon"

There are not only political reasons why British troops should not be sent into Afghanistan, but sound military ones as well. Military equipment reasons to be exact, for our troops would be armed with the notorious SA80, probably the worst rifle in the world.

A recently retired Colour Sergeant from the Royal Marines listed the rifle's fifty major design faults, amongst which were:

- 1) The SA80 will only function when awash with oil.
- 2) It jams in hot weather when the oil gets too thin.
- 3) It jams in cold weather when the oil gets too thick.
- 4) Rounds jam on the crudely welded seams of the magazine.
- 5) It falls to pieces when dropped.
- 6) It cannot be fired from the left shoulder or the empty cartridge will hit the user in the eye.
- 7) The barrel is weak and liable to bend when used with a bayonet

8) When firing has ceased the bolt closes making it impossible for the barrel to cool.

9) Because the butt has been chopped off, the telescopic sights are set on posts, so that the soldier must expose his head from behind cover when firing.

It is so bad that the tiny Falklands Islands Defence Force refused to have it, preferring to buy the Austrian AUG instead. For eight years the Ministry of Defence denied that there were any problems with the SA80, but now they have finally acknowledged that modifications need to be made. They have agreed an £800,000 package with the privatised Royal Arsenal to address some of these faults - the first time ever a manufacturer has been paid to repair one of their defective products.

Army chiefs wanted to write-off the SA80 as a bad job and buy a tried and tested rifle off the shelf at a cost of £4 million, but the MoD found that proposal too expensive, and went for the cut-price "sticky-plaster job on a useless weapon".

Isn't this typical of New Labour - a Government willing to spend £835 million a year on bogus foreign asylum seekers, but who refuse a one-off payment of £4 million on providing British soldiers, in the service of our country, with an effective weapon for the battlefield.

Letters

Write to: The Editor, Voice of Freedom, PO Box 1032, Woodford Green, IG8 9GN

I was pleased that your report on Remembrance Day recalled 1916 and the sacrifice of the Accrington Pals. My father kept his copies of the Accrington Observer & Times for July and August that year, and reading them brings home the horror of the battle and the life-long scar left on the town. As a point of interest, Serre was to remain in German hands until February the following year when it was finally taken by a British and French advance, but at the cost of horrendous casualties. I often wonder what 'The Pals' would make of Accrington today. Thank you for remembering them.

Ethel Riley,
Accrington, Lancs.

What an unexpected but pleasant surprise to find a pro-railway piece in November's Voice of Freedom. The recent Government sponsored CIT Report which found Britain's transport system the worst in Europe, was a damning indictment of 40 years of under-investment in our railways. The road lobby has dictated British transport policy for far too long. The BNP must campaign for an integrated transport system where our railways play a new, major and invigorated role.

Peter Henney
Cambridge.

Further to your report on the Northern Ford Premiership, I am writing to inform you that Oldham Roughyeds have been forced to play their home games this season outside of the town, at Ashton United's Hurst Cross football ground. The rent at Boundary Park was just too much for us and there was no help offered at all by the council to keep the Roughyeds playing in Oldham. The problem is that rugby league is a sport that is enjoyed by mainly white, working class men, and we are at the bottom of the pile when it comes to our council.

Colin Fryer, Oldham.

I thought your readers might be interested in the latest initiative from Croydon Council.

They have come up with the slogan "Don't Dis the Hood" and it is displayed on posters throughout the borough and on two great illuminations in central Croydon.

Apparently it's "Gangster Rap" and it asks youngsters not to scrawl graffiti on buildings or vandalise property. What are we coming to?

BANGLADESH: ELECTION BLOODBATH

Democratic rule in Bangladesh could be coming to an end after just 11 years when Muslim zealots took a step closer to power at October's General Election.

The fundamentalist Jamaat-e-Islami are demanding that their coalition partners, the Bangladesh National Party, dispense with the country's secular laws and adopt Sharia law, which dictate that a country follows the anti-democratic doctrines of Islam.

Muslim fanatics have tightened their grip on power in recent months with a campaign of strikes and political violence which has brought the country to its knees. Last year 60% of Bangladesh's annual export income was lost in the chaos.

Not surprisingly the General Election itself was a bloodbath, with 165 people killed and over 2,600 injured. On polling day violence forced the postponement of balloting in 130 voting centres, despite half a million troops and police patrolling the streets.

The Danish People's Party increased its share of the vote in November's General Election from 7.4% in 1997 to over 12%.

This will now be stopped thanks to the vote for the DPP, whose MP's in parliament will support the newly elected Liberal Party Government.

In Brief.....

MADNESS FROM OLDHAM
All schoolchildren in Oldham must learn Urdu! That's one of the recommendations from the Oldham Law Centre to avoid any more riots in the town. Other 'gems' include an amnesty for the rioters, breaking up of all-white estates, letting ethnic communities police themselves, cutting immigration and asylum red-tape, rooting out institutional racism in the Benefits Agency. The Oldham Law Office was particularly scathing in its criticism of the Oldham Chronicle for reporting the attack on white pensioner, Walter Chamberlain, as a racist attack. Apparently the Oldham Law Office believes that only ethnic minorities can be the victim of racially motivated crime!

MOSQUE FROM HELL

After two years of 'living in hell', residents of Logwood Street in Blackburn will finally have a bit of peace this Christmas. A mosque and Muslim school, with planning permission to look after the spiritual and educational needs of just 20 families, has been hosting services for over 1,000 worshippers causing noise and traffic chaos to the area. Now Blackburn's environmental health department want the mosque closed by 16th December after it found that excessive noise and large numbers of people coming and going from the mosque was having a detrimental effect on residents' quality of life. One local pensioner, who has lived in Logwood Street all her life, told Voice of Freedom that it was fortunate that there hadn't been a serious accident in the area, "Fire engines and ambulances just wouldn't get through because so many cars, mini-buses and coaches are blocking the street. Living here has been a bit of a nightmare."

DOCTORS STRUGGLING WITH ASYLUM INFLUX

Doctors in Radcliffe are struggling to cope with the medical demands of more than 100 asylum-seekers who have moved into the town. "Many arrive in our surgeries in a distressed state with no medical records. That, and the problem of communicating in a foreign language, makes things particularly difficult," one local GP told the Lancashire Evening Telegraph. Local residents, waiting for treatment while their doctor deals with these new arrivals, will have to remain patient. Bury Council have just housed another 12 single adults and six families, from Turkey and Sierra Leone, while an undisclosed number of other asylum-seekers are also being dealt with through private accommodation.

TERMINAL 5: WE JUST DON'T NEED IT!

Terminal 5 isn't just a new terminal for Heathrow. It's a new airport, the size of Gatwick, built right next door to an existing one! But Britain doesn't need a new airport, and the environment and population around London's western suburbs certainly don't need the devastation, congestion and pollution that this white elephant would bring.

Heathrow, Gatwick, Luton and Stanstead can more than cope with the present air traffic for the south of England and, despite what we are told by the 'Air Lobby', the number of flights worldwide and the number of passengers are in decline, and will stay in decline!

After September 11th air travel will never be the same again. For as long as there are crazed fanatics willing to give their lives in the name of Islam, then plane-loads of people will always provide the most tempting target for hitting the West where it hurts, and getting the maximum media coverage.

The current downturn in passengers isn't a temporary blip as Transport Secretary, Stephen Byers, and the British Airport Authority like to have us believe. Airlines will continue to go out of business, jobs will continue to be lost and the number of flights will continue to fall because large numbers of people will still refuse to fly while there is any perceived terrorist threat.

But terrorism alone is not the only reason why the British National Party opposes Terminal 5. Authoritative data from the oil industry indicates that from 2010 onwards, there will be a permanent 3% per year decline of output from the world's now-emptying global oilfields. This will have a devastating effect on transportation, industrial mechanisation and the 500,000 different by-products of oil.

Transport Secretary Stephen Byers

The world's present fleet of 11,000 jet aircraft will quickly become obsolete once the oil shortage starts to bite, and rather than building new terminals, the Government will be closing down whole airports. Terminal 5 is a white elephant trampling over our environment. We just don't need it.

BNP HOLDS DEMONSTRATION OUTSIDE PARLIAMENT

"Islamicists out of Britain! Defend freedom of speech!" This message came over loud and clear at the BNP's Central London demonstration on 24th November.

Around fifty members, mobilised at short notice from the London area, took part in the demonstration outside the House of Commons. The aim was to draw attention to the way in which David Blunkett's new Heresy Law further restricts the traditional freedom of speech of the British people, and 'criminalises' efforts to warn the public about the dire threat posed to Britain by Islamic

"Free speech for the British people" declares Chairman Nick Griffin

Around 50 members, mobilised within three days from the London area, assembled outside Parliament to demonstrate for free speech extremism. The demonstration was enlivened by the presence of Mullah Tony bin Blair, complete with robes and turban, and two Crusaders, armed with swords and St. George Cross shields. After assembling around 12pm, those present demonstrated to around 2pm, at which time Chairman Nick Griffin gave a closing speech.

The demonstration was covered by several journalists, and attracted hoots of support and 'thumbs up' from many passing motorists and cab drivers.

ARCHIVE PROJECT

The British National Party is building a store of information relating to various topics from various newspapers. The Head of Archive has asked for additional volunteers to cover various fields e.g. rural issues, crime etc. and has asked people to write in to say which papers they would cover and which topics. In addition, the following guidelines should be used when taking press cuttings: 1) All cuttings should be taken with scissors; 2) The name, date and page number of the publication should be clearly noted (in capitals) in the margin away from the body of the text; 3) If the subject of interest is not immediately obvious, indicate where it appears; 4) Send all cuttings to: Archive project PO Box 1032, Woodford Green, Essex IG8 9GN; 5) This is a long-term project - always use second-class post.

BEFORE BLUNKETT'S GAG, BNP LAUNCHED JOINT CAMPAIGN WITH SIKHS AND HINDUS

The joint audio recording between the BNP's Chairman Nick Griffin, a long-time Sikh activist and a Hindu who has made a personal in-depth study of Islam was put out by the thousand.

Organised by the BNP's Ethnic Liason Committee, the recording is more than 70 minutes long, and is almost certainly the most detailed audio expose of the 'Green Menace' ever produced.

Before Blunkett's Heresy Law made this recording possibly against the law, the recording was downloaded from our website many thousands of times, and thousands of CD and tape recordings were posted and passed out to journalists, publicans and many ordinary voters.

Major British media outlets have also been sent copies, and several journalists told party officials that they would not be covering the story because the material was too 'sensitive' and "we don't know how to handle it." So much for the fearless free press!

The Politically Correct lie, put about by the likes of Tony Blair, Iain Duncan-Smith and the BBC, that Islam is a religion of 'peace' is shattered into a thousand pieces by the facts exposed by this recording.

This project - bringing together white Britons, Sikhs and Hindus, in a common effort to expose and resist the innate aggression of the imperialistic ideology of Islam - is a truly historic 'first' for the British National Party.

Yet again, we give the lie to those who falsely claim that we are 'racists' or 'haters'. We sympathise and identify with every people in the world who want to secure or preserve a homeland for themselves, their traditions and their posterity.

NEW GROUPS IN FORMATION!

Four new groups are in the process of being formed before the Christmas break with the promise of further developments in the New Year. The news comes as the party has benefited from increased membership over the Summer months and as it prepares for next year's push in the Council Elections.

BURNLEY RESULTS CONFIRM BNP AS OPPOSITION TO LABOUR

One-in-five people now support the British National Party in Burnley. That's if the November council by-elections in the town are anything to go by - and it's an improvement on the one-in-nine who supported the BNP at June's General Election.

The average BNP vote rose to 21%, compared with 12% in May 2000 and 11.25% in this year's general election. In Trinity Ward, Mark Terrell came second with 19%, while in Lowerhouse Carol Ann Hughes came third with an excellent 23.5% of the vote.

A week later, a third by-election took place in Rosehill. Despite a front page attack in the local paper, BNP candidate James Cowell took 19.2% of the vote, beating both the Lib-Dems and the Conservatives, who had been unable to find candidates in the other two wards and only managed to get 8.4%.

This steady progress came in spite of an unprecedented campaign waged by New Labour against the BNP in the town. Local MP Peter Pike took two weeks off his duties at Westminster to knock on nearly every

Fears if BNP councillor is elected

Minister in warning to businesses

By DAVID AYRTON
Telegraph Reporter

NORTHERN Ireland Secretary John Reid has warned voters in Burnley that electing a councillor tomorrow will hit business and investment in the town.

The Cabinet Minister took advantage of a lecture on Ulster affairs in Liverpool tonight to attack the right-wing party in the run up to elections in Lowerhouse and Trinity.

The government has been alarmed at the progress of the BNP in the town following riots there earlier this year and yesterday Burnley Council's Liberal Democrat leader Roger Frost told his supporters to back Labour in the two polls to squeeze out the BNP.

Dr Reid will warn that voting in the BNP to elect a new factory in a place where the political climate is poisonous. They will not locate in an area where the politicians run the area down with their violent rhetoric or aim their spite at large sections of the community.

council seat on Thursday. Businesses want stability - both economic and political. They don't want neo-Nazis holding rallies in the town centre at the weekends. They don't want abuse flying around the Council chamber.

"Businesses simply will not invest money or locate a new factory in a place where the political climate is poisonous. They will not locate in an area where the politicians run the area down with their violent rhetoric or aim their spite at large sections of the community."

British National party. They had made no mention of next week's by-election in Rosehill where they and Labour both had a candidate and where BNP were also standing.

"Are they asking the people of Rosehill to do the same?" he asked.

Trinity and Lowerhouse not to vote Labour and not to be frightened by the BNP.

Independent candidate in Lowerhouse Sam Holgate is fighting to regain the seat he quit following a dispute with the authorities over his council attendance allowances and benefits.

When that was sorted out he decided to stand again for the seat he had vacated. He has been unable to do any canvassing work as he is in hospital following an operation to replace a knee damaged in a footballing accident years ago.

Fellow Lowerhouse independent Councillor Eddie Pick said: "The BNP are a non-entity in these wards, the Lib-Dems are just coddling up to their friends in the Labour Party."

The Socialist Alliance also door in Rosehill, Lowerhouse and Trinity wards, imploring people not to vote for the British National Party.

Deputy Prime Minister John Prescott even visited Burnley during the final week of the campaign, offering the town the possibility of a new government regeneration programme to solve its empty housing crisis.

Of course the plan could only be considered as long as there were no BNP representatives on the council.

TV celebrity, Tony Robinson, of Blackadder and Timewatch fame was also drafted in to canvass, not only on behalf of Labour, but also against the BNP.

With their canvassing returns still showing solid BNP support, New Labour then made a deal with the Liberal Democrats. Roger Frost, Lib-Dem leader on Burnley Council, through the pages of the Lancashire Evening Telegraph called on all their voters to switch to New Labour to keep the BNP out.

But probably the most stunning intervention came from Northern Ireland Secretary of State, John Reid, speaking at Liverpool University.

During a key note address on the troubles in the province, he briefly left Ulster's problems to plead with voters in Burnley not to vote for the BNP. Such interference in the electoral process of three tiny council wards in one East Lancashire town, by a senior Government Minister, and during such a high profile occasion, just beggars belief.

Such a campaign by New Labour against the BNP indicates whom they regard as their real political opposition in Britain.

Simon Bennett, Deputy Organiser for Burnley & Pendle BNP, described the results as "positive" and a further step towards the party's preparation for next May's council elections.

TWO VENUES FOR A HUNDRED YEARS OF SPORT

The fact that Britain is still without a national football or athletics stadium after five years of Government indecision is a national disgrace.

Work has still to start on the renovation of Wembley Stadium as a national football stadium (despite provision of a grant of £120 million to the Football Association from Sport England), while the proposed athletics showpiece at Picketts ing a major international competition and then it's short-term action for quick financial gain, rather than for the long-term future of the sport.

Britain needs a new athletics showpiece to give the sport a proper home and inspire our young competitors to strive for success in their discipline.

The same applies to football where the Wembley dream was something Lock in North East London has now been scrapped.

Sports facilities have always been low on New Labour's agenda, whether it's at school or youth club level, or the national stage.

The only time they show any sort of interest is when there is a chance of host-that was handed down from generation to generation of football enthusiasts, whether players or supporters.

Forget a cut-price dual purpose stadium, Britain needs two venues that will last till the end of the century - a national home for our football and a national home for our athletics.

12/1 WINNER!

Freedom Beats the bookies!

Just three runners met our recommended criteria for bets during November and amongst them was Robert Alner's Coolteen Hero who romped home at Chepstow at the rewarding odds of 12/1.

We almost went one better at Kempton Park ten days later but 14/1 chance Super Tactics was just collared on the run in after leading throughout. Each-way backers still showed a nice profit in the six-runner race.

Our other selection was Count Von Knockagh who went off the 100/30 favourite for his chase at Kempton but fell at the 4th fence. For December we are following a similar formula. Trainers with a good record for the month in CHASES up to 3 miles 5 furlongs are Nicky Henderson, Charlie Mann, Paul Nicholls and Mark Pitman. The courses they do well at are:- Leicester (6th, 12th, 27th), Kempton (26th & 27th), Ascot (21st & 22nd) and Bangor on Dee (19th).

COOLTEEN HERO: 12/1 winner for 'Freedom' readers!

LOOKING AFTER HIS MEMBERS

Gordon Taylor, the Chief Executive of the Professional Footballers' Association, has certainly done his members proud. The deal with the Premier League will see £52.5m paid to the PFA over three years.

The agreement will ensure that the union can carry on its work in helping players from the Nationwide League, who make up the vast majority of its members.

The PFA helps pay for the education of youngsters coming into the game and to look after players when they have finished their careers and need help with old injuries or finding new employment.

Around 90% of professional footballers will need surgery in later life and much of the money collected by the PFA goes into a provident fund to help such players.

Gordon Taylor was aware that this year's televised football deal was the best there would ever be.

It was a windfall that would never happen again and to secure a safe future for the PFA, a long-term agreement on this package had to be agreed.

The disastrous viewing figures for ITV's Saturday's Premier League show stunned the TV companies and with Sky moving towards more 'Pay-For-View', next time broadcasters just won't be offering up the sort of sums they have paid the Premier League this season.

GORDON TAYLOR: Seen here with Arsene Wenger, has secured future funding for the PFA to carry on its excellent work.

Britain is approaching the final hour of decision. Will we regain our political freedom, or will our institutions and sovereignty vanish in a federal European empire? Will we start protecting our industries from cut-throat foreign competition, or will we become a low wage historical theme park for wealthy American and Japanese tourists? Will we find the strength to stem and reverse the tide of non-white immigration, or will we become a minority in our own land within 50 years?

These are the choices facing us today. You should know that our party isn't like all the others. We are not here to flatter and deceive, to lie and promise everything to everyone. We exist for one purpose only: to save Britain and the British and to build a future for the millions of young British children left on the scrapheap by the main parties. If you do nothing, you automatically become part of the problem.
